

Bellcoff to face challenge

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Michael Antonovich Jr. is hoping for a 1988-style upset in the April election.

Antonovich has filed to run against Madison County Democratic Chairman John Bellcoff for Democratic committeeman of Venice Township Precinct 9.

In the 1988 primary election, then Democratic Chairman Mac Warfield was upset in his reelection bid for committeeman. Because only elected committeemen may serve as chairman of the county party, Warfield lost his county position as well.

Antonovich has his own ax to grind with Bellcoff. As Madison mayor, Bellcoff served as a member of the Madison City Election Commission that removed Antonovich, then a candidate for Madison alderman, from the ballot in the city election earlier this year.

At issue then was whether Antonovich's residence was in Madison.

The boundary between Madison and Granite City cuts diagonally through the building at 1401 Madison Ave. where Antonovich resides. Antonovich appealed his removal to the Madison County Circuit Court, but the commission's ruling was upheld.

Although he was not allowed on the ballot, Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles allowed Antonovich to file as a write-in candidate.

Bellcoff said Wednesday that Antonovich's residence is not in Venice Township and he cannot run for office there.

City sees revenue increase

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City's financial picture is a little brighter.

City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart is projecting a deficit of $402,883 for fiscal year 1991-92. That figure compares favorably with a deficit projected at $1.18 million six months ago.

Halfway through the fiscal year, the City Council passed a supplemental appropriation ordinance Tuesday night by a 10-3 vote.

MacTaggart said that, while expenses could be more than had been anticipated, projected revenue should more than offset those expenses.

The city's original budget projected $11,956,321 in expenses and $10,775,827 in revenue, resulting in a $1,180,494 negative balance.

But under the revised budget, MacTaggart anticipates $12,256,883 in expenses ($300,662 more than initially projected) and $11,854,100 in revenue ($1,072,773 more than the initial budget), reducing the negative balance to $402,883.

MacTaggart attributed the additional expenses to union contracts settled since the initial budget was prepared, insurance premium increases greater than expected, and a number of miscellaneous expenses.

Both the firefighter and "white collar" union contracts call for retroactive salary increases, totaling approximately $161,000.

The Illinois Municipal League Risk Management Association premium reflects a 15.11 percent increase, MacTaggart said. The initial budget anticipated an

Venice OKs police hiring

Force's size to double

Venice Police Chief James Bennett is a happier man today — he has something to look forward to in March.

Instead of spending all his time juggling schedules in an attempt to cover a city with manpower he doesn't have, Bennett will have a few more officers.

Four new probationary patrolmen were hired as Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council.

The incoming foursome will double the current size of the department.

Formal approval of their appointment to the Venice Police Department depends on each successfully passing the mandatory drug test.

"I am ecstatic," Bennett said Wednesday.

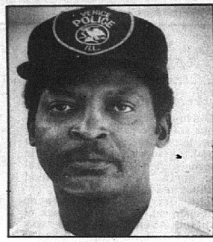

"I still could use one or two more, but I can deal with that. I didn't want to ask for all six, but I could use them," Bennett said.

The police chief said he is currently three men short on the day shift and one officer short on the midnight and the 3 to 11 p.m. shifts.

In addition to Bennett, the department has only four full-time officers and three part-time patrolmen. The three part-time men have had the necessary schooling, Bennett said.

There are also two dispatchers, Deborah King and Kim Clark.

Franklin, reporting to the council for the Venice Police Commission, said a list of six eligible candidates resulted from written and physical tests taken recently at Belleville Area College.

The four top candidates as ranked on the scores from written and physical tests are: Derek L. Wise, Eagle Park; Roland D. Wilson Jr., Venice; Pierre Cochran, St. Louis; and Lonnie L. Jackson, Granite City.

The fact that the two highest ranked candidates are Venice High School graduates pleased the council members, who had agreed the four top men from the six-man eligibility list, as determined by the police commission, would be hired.

Christmas drive is lagging

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

The economic crunch being felt by many people this Christmas season is affecting donations from shoppers into the familiar "red kettles," the Salvation Army's Christmas drive contribution containers.

Collections in the local community for this year's "Tree of Lights" campaign to help needy families in this area have totaled $86,554 so far.

"The Salvation Army needs to raise $123,000 for this year's 'Tree of Lights' drive if we are going to be able to meet the needs in our community this Christmas and in the coming year," Salvation Army Capt. Curtiss Hartley said Tuesday.

"Our bell-ringer collections have only been fair until this past weekend. Volunteers from the Granite City Rotary and the Shriners helped considerably with their bell-ringing efforts on Friday and Saturday.

"Everyone is being affected by current economic conditions, it seems," Hartley said.

"We have about 100 more families receiving help this Christmas from the Salvation Army than last year.

"We've already had to order more toys and more food for our baskets," he said.

"Collections have been consistently down in our kettles and in the mail-in donations.

"A lot of our bell ringers in the first couple of weeks reported that collections were really slow. Fewer people were out shopping and even those at the grocery stores were going in and out without stopping at the kettles," Hartley said.

"We are about $5,000 below last year at this time and our goal this year is quite a bit higher, so it looks like we could be in real trouble," Hartley said.

"We need to let the community know about our (See DRIVE, Page 8A)

Democrats work on own map

A new Democratic map of legislative districts, a response to last week's Illinois Supreme Court decision, is expected to be finished by Friday.

Slate Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, House majority leader and one of his party's members of the Legislative Redistricting Commission, said he spent the weekend and Monday working on a new plan.

The Democratic staff is now "putting it together on the computers," McPike said Tuesday.

The changes affect only those districts cited in the high court decision last Friday as apparently failing to meet requirements for compactness or racial minorities' voting strength, McPike said.

"We did not rewrite the whole map," he said, adding that the Republican commission members would be invited to negotiate a compromise.

The Supreme Court, with two Republican justices dissenting, refused last week to approve a map drawn by the commission's GOP majority. The court ordered the two parties to submit new plans to the commission by Dec. 27 and set a seven-day period for responses. The commission (See MAP, Page 8A)

Attorney remains in the dark on status

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

A Granite City lawyer facing a possible two-year suspension has been left "in the dark" for at least two or three more weeks.

The Review Board of the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission of the Illinois Supreme Court met Friday to consider, among other cases, the case of Leon Scroggins.

Scroggins, a former Madison County state's attorney and formerly the city attorney for Granite City, was originally named in a complaint filed with the commission in November 1989.

That five-count complaint alleged that, in two cases, Scroggins had filed appeals for clients and failed to follow them through;

that Scroggins had failed to file a real estate title for a client and had failed to file a visitation order for another client.

At the time the complaint was made public, Scroggins said the complaints were without foundation.

Scroggins said every lawyer has had dissatisfied clients and that he expected unfounded complaints to "be coming out of the woodwork" after the story appeared in the newspaper.

After investigation, the original complaint against Scroggins was amended to include two more counts of neglect based on similar complaints.

In April, the commission's hearing board recommended Scroggins "be suspended for a period of two years and until further order of the court."

Scroggins filed exceptions to the recommendation with the commission's review board and oral arguments were presented in October.

Thomas Skowonek, the attorney acting in the prosecutorial role in the proceeding against Scroggins, said review board decisions have been running "a few months" behind oral arguments.

"Unfortunately, (the board) doesn't have to tell us if or when a decision is made," Skowonek said. He said the review board is (See ATTORNEY, Page 8A)

75-minute fire station closing worries aderman

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

"A matter of a few minutes makes a lot of difference."

That was 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney's comment regarding temporary closing of the West Granite Fire Station.

Fire Chief Jerry Wallace confirmed that the station was temporarily closed from 4:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. Monday. Wallace said it was the first time he knows of, in his 23 years on the department, that the station had been closed.

He added that, while the action was "unfortunate," response times from the downtown station and statistics regarding the number of fires in the Station 2 service area "made the decision more palatable."

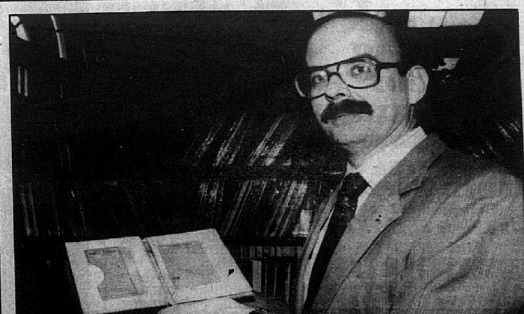

The temporary mothballing was a result of a manning shortage at the West Granite station, caused by the necessity for one of the firefighters to attend a training class at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Wallace said.

The manning table in the city's most recent contract with the firefighters' union, ratified Nov. 12 of this year, is based on the number of men per piece of equipment, rather than per station.

Thus, when the firefighter had to attend class, a pumper at Station 2 was taken out of service and the facility was closed for about an hour and 15 minutes, Wallace explained.

"(The decision to close the station) was an administrative decision made by the mayor and myself," Wallace said. He said the decision to close the station rather than call in another man was based on finances.

"Under normal circumstances, the mayor does not want to take equipment (See STATION, Page 8A)

Neighborhood Watch Program expanded

With FBI statistics showing an ever-increasing national crime rate, Neighborhood Watch Programs are gaining greater popularity in many cities and Granite City is no exception.

Mike Sparks, the crime prevention officer, said that since the re-institution of local programs, scores of residents covering six areas are now actively participating.

The city now has programs in three East Granite neighborhoods and others in the Terrace Lane/Cottage, Pontoon/Sara and Anchorage Homes areas.

The peak year of the Granite City program was 1988, boasting nearly 1,000 participants, but manpower problems within the police department brought all public relations programs to a halt. "The rebirth of such programs has been met with considerable favor," Sparks said.

The basics of the Neighborhood Watch Program are simple: local residents gather together for informal meetings, usually in a home or church, and discuss specific problems affecting their neighborhoods.

Officer Sparks attends these meetings and provides instruction and advice as to how to combat and overcome such problems.

Groups may request instruction in specific areas of concern, such as home security measures or personal safety when out-of-doors. "The beautiful thing about these programs is the versatility they afford," he said.

"Individual Neighborhood Watch Programs may expand to whatever depth they desire. For instance, one group has its members taking turns walking their neighborhood in the evening. Larger areas may even be 'patrolled' by residents in their cars."

He said the residents know they are not police officers and do not get directly involved in crimes in progress. They are, however, taught to be excellent observers and witnesses. They know how and when to report criminal activity.

Those participating receive NWP window decals for their homes.

And, in cooperation with the police department, Superintendent of Streets Clayton "Jug" Harrison has instructed his department to erect brightly colored NWP warning signs throughout participating neighborhoods.

"Obviously, just warning signs will not eliminate all crime. Yet, studies have shown that, where the signs tell the prospective criminal that the residents are more prone to call the police, incident rates have dropped."

"We haven't had time to case-study our local programs, but I am confident we will see similar results," Sparks said.

As a result of the rapid growth, Chief of Police Don Knight has authorized monthly NWP meetings to be conducted for the active groups and the general public at the police station.

Meetings will be held from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month beginning in January 1992.

At the meetings, participants will be able to discuss ongoing problems. Officer Sparks will provide information and current crime statistics as well as a topic of instruction at each meeting.

Anyone interested in participating or learning more about the program may contact Officer Mike Sparks at 451-9760.

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

The Illinois Supreme Court on Friday rejected a Republican-drawn legislative redistricting plan that would have divided Granite City among three representative districts. The redistricting commission now has until Jan. 6 to have a new plan or the will be a state-wide, at-large election for the legislature.

Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, said the court's rejection "has to be good news for Granite City and good news for me." Wolf's district under the rejected plan would have included a part of Granite City and then stretched south to include all of Belleville. Along with Rep. Wyvetter Young's district, which would have included West Granite, Madison, Venice, East St. Louis and Cahokia, Wolf's district would have made up the 57th senatorial district. That district was singled out by the supreme court as not meeting the mandate for compactness.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles screamed at the possibility of a state-wide, at large election. She said she had vivid memories of the last time that happened — 1964 — and said counting the ballots took almost a week.

Granite City Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison had his workers start hauling away leaves Friday, even though the City Council had unanimously voted to have the hauling done by the Sewage Treatment Plant employees.

The street department workers had contended all along that the leaf hauling was theirs by contract and Harrison had refused to let them perform the job. But Friday, Harrison said he had met with union representatives and determined it was the street department's responsibility to do the hauling.

Ann Colyer of Granite City had to tell her 11 grandchildren not to expect much this Christmas — a burglar took all the presents she had purchased from a commercial storage unit in Pontoon Beach.

Colyer, who lives on a fixed income, said she had shopped all year in order to give each child something special. She is hoping the burglar will have a change of heart and said if the burglar will return any or all of the presents there will be no questions asked and no prosecution.

The City of Granite City has joined a lawsuit over the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's plan for a $25-million Superfund cleanup of the lead contamination around the Taracorp pile at 15th and State streets. The city joined the suit after it decided neither the EPA nor NL Industries, one of the parties identified as responsible for the contamination, had the best interests of the city at heart.

The Granite City Police Department's roadblocks at three major intersections Friday night and Saturday morning resulted in more than 60 arrests, according to Police Chief Don Knight. The roadblocks were part of "Operation Buckledown," which is designed to increase enforcement of the Illinois seatbelt law. Knight said more roadblocks are planned in the future.

Police log

Three charges filed

During a joint law enforcement safety check at 11:25 p.m. Dec. 13 on Illinois 203 at Pontoon Road, officers saw a vehicle approaching the roadblock heading north on Nameoki Road without headlights.

The driver, Joseph Jacob Kubelka, 49, of the 700 block of Ashland Avenue, Mitchell, was stopped and an officer alleged that an open beer bottle about half full was found. Four open beer cans also were inside the vehicle, police said.

At police headquarters, Kubelka was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, illegal transportation of alcohol and operating a vehicle without headlights. He posted bail and was released.

Bed taken by burglars

In a burglary at the apartment of Lynda Leggett in the 2100 block of East 24th Street, reported Dec. 13, intruders removed a full-size bed, box springs, mattress and bed frame, plus a key. The apartment's front door was open when she arrived home about 3:50 p.m.

Burglar rips out radio

An auto burglar ripped the stereo radio from the dashboard and two speakers from the back seat area of a 1986 Dodge auto owned by George W. Roethemeyer of the 1600 block of Venice Avenue.

The vehicle was parked in the 3100 block of Fehling Road when the burglar broke a passenger window to get inside the car, Roethemeyer reported Dec. 13.

Missing were an AM-FM cassette player and radio valued at $500, two 12-inch speakers worth $200 and an amplifier valued at $110.

Purse and $100 stolen

Brenda S. Moore of the 2100 block of Cleveland Boulevard reported Dec. 13 that she was at an address in the 2200 block of Edna Street when a suspect walked out of the residence with Moore's brown shoulder-strap purse. Among the contents of the purse were $100 cash, credit cards, a driver's license and keys.

Van operator charged

A 1985 Ford Econoline van operated by Wade Franklin Campbell, 38, of Briarcliff Drive, was stopped by officers conducting a roadside safety check at 12:44 a.m. Dec. 14 at Nameoki and Pontoon roads.

He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and was released after posting his driver's license and cash bail.

Alcohol charge filed

Joyce Billie Jean Hayden, 32, of the 2500 block of Boyle Avenue was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol at 3:12 a.m. Dec. 14 when her 1987 Pontiac sedan was stopped by officers conducting a roadside safety check on Edwardsville Road at 20th Street. She was released after posting $102 and her driver's license.

Burglar ransacks home

Steve D. and Sharon Skaggs of the 2800 block of Lincoln Avenue left home about noon on Dec. 13 to attend a funeral. When their son arrived at the residence at 3 p.m., he found the house had been ransacked and a rear door was open.

Stolen from the dwelling were two video cassette recorders valued at $500 and a cellular telephone, charger and batteries worth $800.

A television in a bedroom had been moved and then dropped on the floor.

Drawers had been emptied and furniture in the living room had been moved around. A stereo cassette also was moved and left on the kitchen table.

Burglar forces window

A burglar forced open a basement window to enter the home of Leonard T. Adams of the 2300 block of West 24th Street, it was reported at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 13.

Taken from the dwelling were a 19-inch color television, a video cassette recorder and a stereo valued at a total of $970, a red tool box and tools worth $169, cassette tapes valued at $90 and a camera worth $60.

Apartment burglarized

A black leather jacket valued at $150, a black and white television worth $50 and a GE telephone answering machine valued at $75 were taken in a burglary at the apartment of Angela M. Datoli in the 2200 block of Washington Avenue, she reported at 12:40 a.m. Dec. 13.

Warrant served on man

Rodney Dean Liss, 32, of the 2100 block of Bryan Avenue was arrested at 3:39 a.m. Dec. 14 while seated on a vehicle outside a tavern in the 2000 block of Illinois Avenue.

Liss was served a warrant alleging failure to appear on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol, not having a valid license and improper registration.

Hunting warrant served

During a roadside safety check on Illinois 203 (Nameoki Road) at Pontoon Road at 12:45 a.m. Dec. 14, officers found that one motorist, Ronald Edward Miller Sr., 27, of the 1100 block of St. Thomas Road was wanted on a conservation warrant issued through Union County, Ill. The warrant charged hunting on land without a permit. Miller posted $102 bail and was released.

Window of van broken

The tinted window on a 1987 Ford Van owned by Beverly M. Chrisher of the 2300 block of O'Hare Avenue was smashed by vandals, she reported Dec. 12.

Yule treats, bonuses in Venice

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Venice youngsters may pick up their Christmas candy treats and fruit on Saturday, Dec. 21. City employees will find a holiday bonus, possibly with this week's pay check.

And a free Christmas dinner will be served on Christmas Eve by the Church of Christ of Venice to anyone in need or living alone.

All three holiday events were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Venice City Council.

The candy treats and fruit are presented to children in the community each Christmas season by Mayor Tyrone Echols and other city officials.

This year's distribution will take place Saturday from 10 a.m. until noon at the City Garage on Klein Street.

Children may obtain tickets from their aldermen today or Friday and then exchange the tickets for the seasonal treats.

The aldermen also voted to give Christmas bonuses to all full-time employees of the city.

Each employee will receive a $135 check, minus taxes, coming to about $100 per person. If possible, the bonus checks will be included in the Dec. 20 pay envelope.

Comptroller

Comptroller Roseann Koelker said Wednesday.

Those eligible to receive the checks are all full-time city employees, including members of the police and street departments, workers at City Hall and the full-time engineer/driver in the Venice Fire Department.

The gift checks were a traditional gesture of appreciation given each Christmas to city employees for many years. The bonuses were discontinued for a long time and were resumed in 1990.

Mayor Tyrone Echols said the Logan Street Church of Christ will sponsor its seventh annual Christmas dinner for needy and underprivileged citizens of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Brooklyn from noon until 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 24, at the Venice Community Senior Citizens Center, Brown and Klein streets.

The dinner is made possible each year through contributions from area banks and merchants and the Venice mayor and City Council, the Rev. Nathaniel Cobb, pastor, said.

Persons who are ill or shut-in and unable to go to the center are asked to call 876-3362, giving their name, address, telephone number and how many dinners are required.

Council members voted Tuesday night to continue to support the dinner project and to help defray part of the cost from city funds.

Some aldermen also have volunteered in previous years to deliver dinners to homebound residents and those in ill health.

Dance to finance camp for burn victims

Yes, Virginia, there will be a dance sponsored by a local firefighters organization.

The Firefighters Burn Camp Fund of Southern Illinois will hold a Valentine Firefighters Ball from 9 p.m. Feb. 14 to 1 a.m. in O'Fallon, said Mark Bearth, secretary for the Southwestern Illinois Firefighters Association (SWIFA) and project chairman for the Burn Camp Fund.

Bearth said he has hired a fund raising organization to make telephone calls for the dance and the SWIFA annual magazine ad book.

In a Dec. 15 Journal story, Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey warned people about telephone solicitation increasing during the holidays. Orsey recommended that people ask the solicitor to send more information before agreeing to make a pledge.

In the earlier article, Orsey said a solicitor often will use an organization's good name as an advantage in making an illegal pitch. Local firefighters had reported that they had received several calls about the dance and were unaware of any fund-raising activity.

"If you ask a fly-by-night solicitor to send information, they usually hang up or they've got 101 excuses. Legitimate groups are happy to provide more information," Orsey said.

"We will send out information," Bearth said.

The fund was established in order to send burn victims between the ages of 8 and 18 to summer camp at the YMCA's Camp Duncan in Englewood, Ill. In the past the organization sent a few of the children to camp in Colorado, Bearth said, but by use of an Illinois camp more kids get to go.

"It gives the kids a chance to interact with a group of unique peers outside of the hospital setting," Bearth said. "Many of the adult counselors are burn victims also."

The campers participate in typical summer camp activities while having their special medical needs attended to, Bearth said.

The firefighters ball was an annual event for a long time, Bearth said, but the event was dropped due to waning interest in such a formal event. This year's event will have band music provided by an orchestra.

"That doesn't mean everyone has to go out and rent a tuxedo, but it is a step up from the traditional chicken and beer dance," Bearth said.

The cost of tickets for the dance is $10 per person in advance and $12.50 at the door. Tickets can be obtained by calling Bearth at 234-4333 at Color Graphics and Printing in Swansea.

Bearth said ticket sales for the dance have been going well. The dance will be held at the Ball Park in O'Fallon.

"It's the only place we could find that would be big enough to hold what we're expecting," Bearth said.

Special time of year

The spirit of giving makes this time of year special. At no other time are so many people willing to try to make everyone happy.

It is that care and concern for our fellow man that keep the change chinking into the bottom of Salvation Army bell-ringer buckets. We buy gifts for friends and family with only the reward of making them happy as a goal.

It is that spirit that makes us all susceptible to those who prey on the unsuspecting. Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey of Granite City said he wants anyone who receives a questionable fund request to contact him so a criminal investigation can begin.

He also wants people to be aware of ways to prevent being taken.

Always ask to have information mailed rather than agreeing to contribute over the telephone. "If you ask fly-by-night solicitors to send information, they usually hang up or they've got 101 excuses. Legitimate groups are happy to provide more information," Orsey said.

Be sure you know who you are talking to. If someone you know calls for an organization you recognize, you can feel safe in making that contribution, like that familiar bell-ringer asking for help for the Salvation Army. There are a lot of organizations that ask for help at Christmas time and their efforts should not be damaged by the work of the con man. Have a happy holiday and help those in need when you can, but beware of those who would ruin a merry Christmas.

Bethlehem offers peace, love

The following is a Christmas reflection from Bishop Daniel L. Ryan of the Diocese of Springfield, Illinois. Bishop Ryan is the spiritual leader of 178,000 Catholics in the 28-county diocese.

"I'm dreaming of a white Christmas, just like the ones I used to know..."

The strains of that familiar Christmas song capture the mood of this season: fond memories of home, winter scenes, warm family ties and friendship.

The "reason for the season" is found in memories, too. Christmas stories told by the gospel writers Luke and Matthew portray a stable in the little town of Bethlehem, shepherds on hills nearby, a young mother and her husband, a baby lying in a manger.

These memories bespeak love without limit and a gift of peace without end.

In the birth of Jesus, God the unseeable, the unknowable, the untouchable comes as close to us as an infant who can be held and cuddled. The all-powerful God is seen and heard in the person of a tiny child crying from cold and hunger.

In other words, at Bethlehem, God reveals who God is, not in encyclopedic, philosophical terms, but in human form for all of us to grasp and love.

God's appearance in Bethlehem is not threatening or frightening.

In the poverty of Bethlehem no one of us need fear being too needy to approach God. It is human love that fills the stable: a young husband and wife cherishing the gift of new life in the child they cherish. Shepherds and the flocks they tend approach with human reverence and, in doing so, they surround a gift divine.

At Bethlehem, God's self-giving love enters the world. Its promise will be fulfilled in life, death and resurrection of Jesus, who lived and died for others.

The peace of Bethlehem is a taste of the gifts God gives to all of us: simple acceptance of each human being by the other, warmth and genuine affection sacred in love. No threats. No fear.

Our dreams of Bethlehem, of the first Christmas ever celebrated there, are filled with divine power: we can share in the reality of God's love and peace.

Politics — the big gamble

(Carol Clarkin's opinion column appears regularly in the Edwardsville Journal.)

'Tis the season for jollity, normally. But hard on the heels of the November elections, it's become apparent that 'tis also the season for anxiety. And I don't mean the Christmas blues.

It was too late to cancel the trip to Rome and the Netherlands, but on the election night President George Bush canceled plans to visit Tokyo, Singapore, South Korea, Australia and Hawaii.

His faithful, Mr. Fitzwater, announced the reason for the cancellation as being the need to hang around Washington in the event Congress decided to consider legislation to spur the economy and extend unemployment benefits. Call me a cynic, but I doubt that.

True, members of Congress aren't in very good repute in the eyes of the voting public. And it might be nice to try to make a little political hay out of it. But the president has been (finally!) reading the polls and the headlines and it's sunk in that his own popularity is drooping like an untended baby's diaper.

He probably wasn't too happy with Harris Wofford winning in Pennsylvania, either. But look on the bright side — better late than never, right? Back in late September, President Bush was probably too busy with concerns about the Clarence Thomas confirmation and the planned Mideast get-together to notice that poverty in this country had risen to 13.5 percent in 1990 — 2.1 million more poor people than in the previous year.

That figure — 33.6 million — includes what are called the "new" poor: there's not much doubt that the percentages are continuing to rise this year. I'd make book that George Bush has taken more than a cursory gander at the latest Gallup Poll, and has learned Americans are a lot more worried about conditions within our own borders than they are with what's happening anywhere else.

Their biggest concerns are with matters economic — general economic conditions, unemployment, the budget deficit, tax policy, poverty and homelessness. Other concerns ranking high on voters' lists are education, crime, health care, the environment.

National defense, foreign affairs, race relations, and abortion rank low among their concerns. In fact, among registered voters polled, national defense and foreign affairs concerned only 2 percent as determining their vote next year; 21 percent felt economic conditions to be most important, with education and unemployment being tied for second place at 12 percent each.

Bush's personal popularity has slipped from 54 percent in February to 46 percent in early November.

In addition to the 5 percent of polled registered voters who had no opinions whatsoever on issues, the Gallup people came up with some interesting news about the Democrats (and those leaning toward them) — Marie Cuomo was far and away the lead dog in the pack.

But, should Cuomo choose not to run, the choices (top to bottom) are Jerry Brown, Doug Wilder, Bob Kerrey, Tom Harkin, Bill Clinton and, last, Paul Tsongas.

But the real eye-opener came in answers to the question of whether the voter had a favorable or unfavorable opinion on the possible Bush opponents.

Pollsters allowed for the fact that the person questioned might not have heard of the candidate or had no opinion — and more than 10 percent of these Democrats either have never heard of them or have no opinion at all. In some cases, the percentage is nearly 20.

It's a fascinating puzzle, what motivates these voters to punch a particular candidate's name once they enter the voting booth.

Eneeny, meeny, miney, mo? Straight party voters?

Will they approve Bill Clinton's youthful good looks? Or, if they've heard of them at all, be swayed by the past romantic connections of Brown and Kerrey with stars of the glitzy world of entertainment?

Who can explain these voters and their reasoning? Who can tell you why? And whoever said politics and elections aren't a dice game?

Need to reach out and work together

(Guest column by U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois)

David Duke's loss in Louisiana was good news for the state and the nation. It would have been an incredible embarrassment to all Americans had he been elected governor.

But I am concerned about the atmosphere that created David Duke's political rise.

This former Nazi and Ku Klux Klansman did not suddenly emerge without having a base built for him by people who thought they were clever as they exploited racial divisions in our country.

For the past 10 years, our nation's top leadership has sanctified indifference to those less fortunate.

And sometimes — like with the Willie Horton case — it went beyond the harshness of indifference to a simple, not-so-subtle appeal to racism. The steps from indifference to Hortonism to Dukism are not huge.

In a book that will be published soon, "The Cost of Courage," Congressman Carl Elliott Sr. writes:

"It's not dead at all, the hate and hysteria and fear that lives somewhere in men's minds and in their souls. It's there like a poison, doing battle with whatever sense of decency each of us might have."

Our guest

There is both good news and bad in reading the breakdown of how people voted in Louisiana.

The good news is that the greater the education, the less likely people were to vote for Duke. High school graduates voted for Edwin Edwards by 54 percent; those with some college, by 67 percent; college graduates, by 67 percent; and those with postgraduate education, by 77 percent.

But the racial appeal partially worked. Whites voted for Duke 55-45. Blacks voted for Edwards 96-4.

The New York Times printed a great photograph, taken by Alan S. Weiner, of seven whites gathered on a porch, four of them barefoot, a broken window in the home.

Under the picture are these words: "They just have those babies and go on welfare," said Sharon Duke about blacks. She sat with friends on a porch in Garyville, La., holding her year-old son, Ralphie, on her lap. Ms. Duke, a single, unemployed woman, said she receives welfare payments. "But the blacks get more," I'm sure she believes what she said.

But the problem is not just in Louisiana.

Some of the top leaders in both political parties are saying, "We have to appeal to middle-class Americans. Forget the poor."

That comes from the same atmosphere that created David Duke. Of course, political parties should pay attention to middle-class Americans. But if the political parties fail to give opportunities to under-class Americans to move into the middle-class, everyone gets hurt.

The message of Louisiana, and the lesson of the political atmosphere that has crept up on all of us like a poison gas, is that we have to reach out to one another.

The failure to reach out has created the senseless slayings in Yugoslavia and has caused less measurable, but no less real, harm in the United States.

A few days before the Louisiana election, the distinguished African-American, Percy Sutton, appeared on a television panel to discuss race relations.

He said, "We live in two worlds. You live in your world and I live in my world."

"We are glad to see the breakthrough, but we don't want the television audience to think that a few blacks making it can excuse all of the indignities, all the injuries, all the lack of opportunities for all the rest of the blacks."

"The fact that Percy Sutton is sitting on this panel with you does not mean that my neighbors are resting any better today."

The lesson of Louisiana is that people can no longer live in separate worlds.

We share this nation and this earth, and we have to work together to make both better, or both will get worse.

School district puts pupils first

TO THE EDITOR:

I am responding to a letter that appeared in the Press-Record, "Letters to the Editor," section on Nov. 27 in regard to crossing guards.

Finally, I have never taken the position that the School District is broke, or that we have financial constraints and have attempted to spend every dollar in the wisest manner.

However, we have never failed to spend money when we thought it was necessary to protect our students.

This district's record speaks for itself. We have always put our students first in all of our decisions and in all of our concerns and will always do so.

unsafe situations as crossing guards.

Our School District and thousands of others across the United States have a long, successful history of using older students as safety patrols. This process has been going on for years and has not been affected by the recent change in crossing guard assignments.

Finally, I have never taken the position that the School District is broke, or that we have financial constraints and have attempted to spend every dollar in the wisest manner.

However, we have never failed to spend money when we thought it was necessary to protect our students.

This district's record speaks for itself. We have always put our students first in all of our decisions and in all of our concerns and will always do so.

TO THE EDITOR:

I recently had the opportunity to offer comments on the floor of the United States House of Representatives to pay tribute to a resident of Granite City, an eighth grade teacher at Coolidge Junior High School, Edward Schroeder.

Mr. Schroeder has recently been recognized by his peers for the national outstanding teacher award of 1991.

Mr. Schroeder's original and imaginative teaching style has encouraged many students in Granite City to learn to be creative, individual thinkers.

His enthusiasm and love of teaching have enabled him to become a role model for all educators.

I am hopeful that, as teachers all over America chart the future of our educational system, they will see Mr. Schroeder's exemplary teaching efforts and will offer, in their own ways, new perspectives that motivate students to learn.

I know I speak for many of Mr. Schroeder's neighbors in Granite City when I offer him my congratulations on this fine recognition.

Lists wishes as Christmas nears

TO THE EDITOR:

As the birth of our Savior, Lord Jesus Christ, is fast approaching, there are a few things I would like to see.

— Give your life to Jesus.

— Attend the church of your choice each week if possible. In several countries, this is not allowed. "God bless the church that has the power to keep people from going to church."

— Pray for the leaders all over the world.

— Be American, buy American, buy union.

The job that you save could be your own, your wife's, your son's, your daughter's, grand children's or simply another American.

America as a whole. If the people representing us are doing a good job, then we need to reelect them. If not, get rid of them, from the top to the bottom, federal, state, local government, unions, or any organization.

Massive support

TO THE EDITOR:

Granite City Firefighters Local 253 would like to thank the residents of Granite City for their recent support of the fire department's ambulance service.

The letters that were written and the help in the petition campaign were overwhelming and flattering.

Your continued support of our services will not be forgotten as we strive to bring you the best possible emergency medical care and remain a vital part of the community.

Christmas program set for Sunday

Lucille Martin

Lucille Martin covers the Pontoon Beach scene for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-0731.

The Pontoon Beach Lionsess Club hosted a Christmas party on Dec. 12 for the Granite City Family Service of Aid Children. Each child received a gift from Santa Claus and they were served McDonald's hamburgers and fries. The Lionsess furnished cookies.

Lionsess participating were President Betty Johnson, Mary Nelson, chairperson; and Nyla Irmen, co-chairperson. Also Tyn Turcott, Delores Kiefer, Marie Debow, Henrietta Graham, Paula Werner, Helen York, Evelyn Kales, Christy Wells, Lavonne Melzynski, Luan Leard, Barb Dyer and Dottie Ferrell. A special educational teacher attended and told stories. The party was a great success. The Lionsess helped the Lions in collecting canned foods on Saturday to be given in food baskets for Christmas. The Lionsess will be working Bingo, New Year's evening. Doors will open at 4 p.m. and games will begin at 7 p.m.

The Bunco Club met Wednesday evening in the home of Robbie Wilson. Members present were Edna Bennett, Debbie Vincent, Karen Lemmon, Joy Edwards, Sally Kirksey, Edith Royasnick, Linda McFarland, Doris Wilson, Vina Nelson, Joy Rowland and the hostess.

The Young Adult Department, the young married class and the singles class of the Pontoon Baptist Church held their Christmas party, jointly, Saturday evening in the church. Games were played and refreshments were served to the teachers, Louise Haynes and Lula Frost and Pastor Ed Hart; Lyn Hart; Ben Frost; George Haynes Jr.; Paul A. and Debbie Stayduhar and daughter, Caitlin; Roger and Kim Wilson and their dam and Hannah; Tammy Schenke and daughter, Ashley; Sandy and Jessica Usery; Sharon Ryan, Leslie Chaney; Julie Nicol and daughter Chelsey and Jill Chaney.

A Christmas dinner and party was held for the Adult Ladies Class Sunday following the morning service at the Pontoon Baptist Church fellowship hall. Members attending and their guests were the teacher, Izetta Stayduhar and her husband, Paul, Sylvia Massman, Lucille (See MARTIN, Page 7A)

Secretaries celebrate

Kathy Dohnal

Kathy Dohnal covers the Madison-Venice School Secretaries celebrated at "The Den" with a party on Monday, Dec. 9.

Exchanging gifts were Mary Beth Sipes, Sherri Guardiola, Toni Cromer, Mary Ann Kaminski, Gladys Watts, Joyce Walker, Edna Mae McLann, Loma Lassen, Dolores Brunice and guest Terri Brunice.

The Polish Roman Catholic Union of America Lodge held its annual Children's party on Sunday, Dec. 15.

The Polish Hall Dancers provided the entertainment. Santa arrived with gifts for all the junior members and a lunch was served to all.

Dear Santa, I have been good. I want a

The following letters to Santa Claus were written by first, second and third-grade students at the Harris Elementary School in Madison. The students' teachers were kind enough drop the letters by the Press-Record office before forwarding them to Santa. By now, all of the letters should have arrived at the North Pole, where they are being given proper attention.

Dear Santa,
I know that most kids don't think you are real but I do. I've been trying to be good. But my brothers and I get into a fight sometimes. The most things I would like is a typewriter and a computer. If you can't get those things then could you get me some books. I would like to have a baby sister. My mom and dad want to get rid of my dog. You you help me?
Lots of love,
Kristen Thebeau

Dear Santa,
I know you are ok. My mom and dad kept telling me I was the best kid. Then I did get in trouble. I hope you will bring me a baby sister. My mom and dad want to get rid of my dog. You you help me?
Lots of love,
Sabrina

Dear Santa
My mom and dad said that I have been so happy and so good that I said I love Santa and I do. I am so happy to have Christmas joy.
Merry Christmas and lots of love for my friend Ellen all ways
Victoria Renee Gordon

Dear Santa,
How are you feeling? I hope you are feeling great. I hope your wife is feeling great too. What do you have for me? I want a toy gun and more neat toys.
Have a very Merry Christmas.
Love
Mark

Dear Santa,
I know you are a very busy man. You are a very fine man. You very friendly. You give gifts to everyone. I know you are a very kind man. I believe in Santa Claus.
Lots of love,
John Lance

Dear Santa,
I hope it snows. I hope you can make it. My mom needs a new car. So does my dad. I have been good. So have my sisters. My mom likes to get a big tree. So does my dad.
You know what your reindeer names are?
Love
Damon Rupinski

Dear Santa,
I hope feel well. I wish you a very good Christmas.
I need pencils and paper.
Lots of love
Jay Sanford

Dear Santa,
How do you feel?
I love you very much. My mom and dad love you too. It is very nice to give you some presents. Thank you for giving us some presents. All of us like the presents.
Lots of love

Dixon announces re-election plan

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

In an effort to focus attention on the plight of the working class, U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, announced his re-election bid Tuesday while touring Belleville Shoe Factory.

Dixon, who was first elected to the U.S. Senate in 1980, is trying for his third term in office on a platform of helping industry and the common man.

He called working-class people the backbone of Illinois during his tour.

While speaking to a crowd of about 40 workers at the shoe factory, Dixon said he is favor of parental leave policies for both men and women who may need time off to spend with their children.

"Both parents have to work these days; that is just how it is," he said. "That is not how it was when I was growing up but that is the situation today."

He said he can sympathize with the situation of having to take time off from work to care for children, because all three of his children have two-career marriages and children of their own.

Other issues he will work for in his campaign include health-care insurance, child care, a tax break for middle-class families, increased employment opportunities and housing.

Dixon expects to receive some opposition for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate because of his vote to confirm U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, after Thomas' sexual harassment hearings. "I gave the man the benefit of the doubt," he said. "I would give any man or woman the benefit of the doubt."

He has served as Illinois' secretary of state, state treasurer and in the Illinois House of Representatives and Senate.

Dixon planned to visit Champaign, Peoria, East Moline, Rockford and Chicago on the first week of his campaign tour.

Post offices on holiday schedule

The Postal Service will operate on a holiday schedule during the observance of Christmas Day, Wednesday, Dec. 25, and New Year's Day, Wednesday, Jan. 1.

No regular residential or business deliveries will be made and usual postal office lobby services will not be available.

Special Delivery and Express Mail Service will be available both holidays. No collections will be made on Christmas Day.

Mail pickup will be provided on New Year's Day from regular and Express Mail collection boxes located at stations and branches only.

Express Mail will be accepted at the postal Air Mail Facility located at Lambert International Airport. This facility is open 24 hours, seven days a week, including Christmas and New Year's Day.

Mailing services continue to be available on an around-the-clock basis at self-service postal centers. These services include stamps, postal cards, stamped envelopes, weigh scales, rate charts and currency changing machines.

increase of 12 percent. The difference between the budgeted and actual costs is $11,372.

The city's failure about five years ago to register two underground fuel storage tanks with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency resulted in their removal not being covered under an insurance program.

If the tanks had been registered, the city would have had to pay a $10,000 deductible for the removal. But because the tanks did not qualify for the insurance program, the city will expend about $75,000 for the removal, MacTaggart said.

Other unanticipated expenses include a $8,988 retirement payout to Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison due to his withdrawal from the union before being elected. $18,586, a 3½ percent increase in salary for full-time, non-union city employees; and $17,332 for health and life insurance for the public works department.

Due to a clerical error, the initial budget appropriated only $17 for the public works insurance line item, MacTaggart said.

MacTaggart said the city is "still financially healthy" and can expect to have about $1 million on hand at the end of FY 1991-92 if the budget is accurate.

that, he's going to have to go to court to prove it," Antonovich said Wednesday.

"I didn't have a chance last time; there wasn't time to fight it. But this time I've got plenty of time to fight and I'm going to fight tooth and nail. And I'll betcha this time I'm going to win."

Although the Madison County Democratic-endorsed slate carried all offices in the 1988 primary, enough influential Democrats lost their own precinct races to prompt Executive Committee member Alan Dunston of Troy to say, "The slate won, but the slatemakers lost."

In addition to Warfield, other prominent Democrats who lost their precinct races in 1988 were former Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, County Board member Don Garrett of Madison and former state Democratic committeewoman Sharon Perjak.

In the 1992 primary, several well-known local Democrats are facing opposite their precinct posts. The races include:

Madison Alderman Jim Cafrey will be opposed in Venice Precinct 8 by former Madison alderman and one-time mayoral candidate Ron Grzywacz.

Long-time committeeman Hollis Donaldson in Granite City Precinct 10 will be opposed by former committeeman Steve Ortiz. Ortiz is also a candidate for the county board in District 23, the seat now held by Garrett.

Granite City Democratic Chairman Frank Laub, a county board member, is opposed by Kim Affolter in Granite City Precinct 21.

Bill Harrison, who succeeded Warfield and preceded Bellcuff as county Democratic chairman, is opposed by T.A. Feeler in Granite City Precinct 23.

State Democratic Committeewoman Judy Whitaker, a Granite City alderman, is opposed by Karen Melton in Granite City Precinct 32.

Former Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen is opposed by Michael Scannell in Granite City Precinct 17.

Long-time committeeman Jim "Red" Worthen is opposed by two-time alderman candidate Sandy Shaw in Granite City Precinct 20.

Worthen, twice a runner-up to county Democratic chairman, is opposed by T.A. Feeler in Granite City Precinct 23.

State Democratic Committeewoman Judy Whitaker, a Granite City alderman, is opposed by Karen Melton in Granite City Precinct 32.

Former Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen is opposed by Michael Scannell in Granite City Precinct 17.

Long-time committeeman Jim "Red" Worthen is opposed by two-time alderman candidate Sandy Shaw in Granite City Precinct 20.

Maxine Green covers the Granite City and Nanticoke Township area for the Press-Record/Journal. She can be contacted at 931-4256.

The Esther class of the Suburban Baptist Church, held the annual Christmas party in the Town and Country Fellowship Hall Monday evening. The meeting opened with prayer by the class teacher, Helen Cook. A short business meeting was about Christmas, games were played and gifts were exchanged.

The retiring president, Marie Daigler, presented a gift certificate to the teacher from the class in the absence of the president, Ruth Bunker, who is in the hospital. Those enjoying the time of fellowship were: Fatsy VonNi, Velma Holland, Gladys Templeman, Evelyn Mohorn, Louise Rollins, Marie Daigler, Helen Cook, Helen Lally, Demona Holkamp, Mary Charlton, Julia Simonsky, (pastor's wife), and Jane Hoover, (wife of Minister of Education and Youth). De Smith, Sharon Purkey, Georgetta Monreal, Ruth Mosey, Inge Smith, Connie Stenoma, Callie Dalton, Ida Evans and Edna Jackson. Meeting closed with a prayer.

A Christmas cantata, "Night of Miracles," led by Bill Patterson will be presented Sunday Dec. 22, at the Suburban Baptist Church, starting at 7 p.m. The annual Avon Christmas Banquet was held Thursday evening in the Granite City Township hall. A short meeting was opened by Phyllis Laster, with a welcome to new members, followed by the group singing Christmas songs, accompanied by Maxine Green at the piano. The catered meal was served to Esther Clement, Myrtle Chastine, Nora Hailer, Julia Lotzy, Mary Rodgers, Chloe Denny, Betty Kircuber, Aggie McGlinchey, Dorothy Alsop, Dace Davis, Rose Dooleen, Evelyn Sherman, Audrey Fithen, Denise Mainier, Donna Johnson, Sandra Jamilton, Vernetta Bellovich, Clarine Ceggin, Billie Bosworth, Nading Popp, Alma Reynolds, Jan Mowry, Christy Andrew, Sharop Wayeche, Beverly Werts, Shirley

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

The question sometimes arises as to whether an employer can be held responsible for the negligent, willful, malicious or even criminal acts of its employees. To answer questions in a given case, one would have to look to the legal principle known as "respondent superior." This doctrine allows a person injured by an employee to look to the employer for recovery in certain cases.

Illinois law provides that an employer may be liable for the negligent, willful, malicious, or criminal acts of its employees when such acts are committed in the course of employment and in furtherance of the business of the employer. The employer is not liable to an injured person where the acts complained of were done solely for the benefit of the employee.

In one recent case, a teacher's aide at a YMCA day care center allegedly beat and sexually assaulted a three-year old child in the course of employment and in furtherance of the business of the employer. The child's father sued the YMCA and alleged that the teacher's aide sexually molested the child and struck her while the employee was "in the course of her employment" at the day care center. The YMCA moved to dismiss the part of the complaint directed at it, contending that the offensive acts were not done within the scope of the aide's employment. The Circuit Court dismissed the counts of the complaint directed at the YMCA, and the plaintiff appealed this decision.

Should the YMCA be responsible for the intentional acts of its employee in this case? The Appellate Court ruled that the teacher's aide was not acting within the scope of her employment when she committed these acts but rather was acting solely for her own benefit when she assaulted and sexually molested the young girl. Therefore, the principle of respondent superior was found not to apply in this case, and the YMCA was properly dismissed from the suit.

In a similar case decided in 1985, a security guard stopped a young girl after she made a purchase and led her to an enclosed office for the purpose of searching her. There he sexually molested her. The Court here also ruled that the employee's actions were a deviation from the scope of employment, and that the grocery store was not liable to the injured girl.

Ohlendorf said of the Kahoks: "They're different this year. Keene is in a different role. Their size in the past not only had an effect rebounding, but it also made it difficult to get things done offensively."

Marshall, averaging 17 points, is the Warriors' second-leading scorer. He and Dochwat are extremely quick and are capable of causing problems at both ends of the court for Kahok guards Steve Van Dyke and Tim Reynolds.

"John Cozlar played his best game at Edwardsville," Ohlendorf said of the 6-2 senior forward. "Plus, Larry Mosby will be back after having the flu. He can come off the bench and give us a lift."

Even with improved quickness, the Warriors figure to have a difficult time containing Keene. Keene's nine-point performance in the Kahoks' 71-46 loss to DeMatha was extremely uncharacteristic, and it may never be repeated.

"We won't shut Keene down entirely," said Ohlendorf. "Obviously, we hope he has a shooting night similar to what he had at the arena, but we can't do all the things DeMatha does. They were partly responsible for his off-night."

"It's a big game on their home court. The atmosphere there is always good for basketball. The Collinsville fans follow the sport and their team probably better than 99 percent of the fans elsewhere. That always makes it special. The Warriors travel to Chatham Glenwood on Saturday, then are off until the Collinsville/Schnucks Holiday Classic, which begins next Thursday."

Three consecutive steals ignited an eight-point run that tied the game at 25-25. Dupo recaptured a 35-34 lead before Marcus Anderson put Venice on top to stay with 1:49 to play in the third quarter.

"We tried to hold the ball," Dupo coach Ron Colyer said. "But we did a real poor job of protecting it. They sped up the tempo and we couldn't recapture the momentum."

"Our guys have to learn that basketball is a game of tempo. If you have the momentum, you go with it. If you don't, you must try to pull it back into your hands."

The Tigers committed 28 turnovers. "A lot of people will say we should be 4-0," Colyer said. "But we've made 55 turnovers in our last two games. That's way too many to beat the good teams. I'm confident in this club. But we can't put four good quarters of basketball together. If we do, we'll blow somebody out of the water."

Marcus Franklin led Venice with 17 points and eight rebounds. Anderson finished with 11. Aaron Lovell paced Dupo with 13 points and 10 rebounds. "Dupo's solid," Harris said. "They have good size for a Class A school. Their size gave us fits in the first half. That's why we sped up the tempo in the second half. We needed to spread things out. Our quickness won this game."

James Wellmaker, Johnathon Love and Anderson combined for three steals. "Wellmaker has been a big lift for us off the bench," Harris said. "He's a tough defensive player. But our strength has always been quickness and defense."

Child care center under construction

Korte Construction Co. has begun construction of the new Child Development Center in Granite City for the Department of the Army.

The 5,000-square-foot facility will be located at the Melvin Price Support Center, Niedringhaus Avenue and Illinois Highway 3.

The day-care center is being constructed for the children of families who live or work at the military base, which is commanded by Lt. Col. Fred E. Brown.

The project was awarded to Korte based on a competitively bid design/build proposal.

The day-care center will be the first facility at the Price Center to be constructed on a design/build basis. AIS Inc. of Highland is the architect.

The building will have a pre-engineered steel frame by Butler Manufacturing with a masonry veneer exterior wall system. The roof is a standing seam panel system.

A protective cover at the entrance, near the playground, will identify the entrance as well as provide a shelter from inclement weather.

Separate rooms for infants, toddlers and preschoolers are designated. A reception area, laundry room, staff lounge, office and kitchen are also incorporated into the building.

Construction of the facility is on a fast track, with only a three-month construction schedule. Completion of the project is scheduled for January 1992.

Business seminars are planned

The small business committee of the Tri City Area Chamber of Commerce is announcing its first seminar of 1992.

The seminar will be presented at Ravanelli's Restaurant on Thursday morning, Jan. 30. Registration is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. Breakfast will be served at 7:30.

The cost is $5, which includes the cost of breakfast. Rosemarie Brown, of Van Arch and Associates, a public relations firm in Granite City, will present a program on creative marketing and advertising ideas for the small business owner.

Future seminars sponsored by Chamber of Commerce for small business owners will include the following topics and dates: March 10, workmen's compensation laws; Sept. 10, creative financing for the small business owner; and Oct. 20, tax savings and retirement planning.

For further information on a specific seminar, or on becoming a part of the small business committee, please call the Chamber office at 876-6400.

2nd Whitt joins Flood Realty

Flood Realty has announced the addition of Donna Whitt to its sales staff.

Donna is a recent graduate of the Pat Curless Real Estate Academy. She also has associate degrees in both the arts and sciences from Belleville Area College and is a senior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Donna Whitt, Donna's husband, has been a Granite City Realtor for more than 20 years and is also an agent for Flood Realty.

Family more important than job

To most American workers, no job is more important than family. The materialistic '80s are definitely over, according to Accountants On Call.

If offered a significantly higher paying and more prestigious job, the majority of workers would turn it down flat if it meant spending a large amount of time away from family, according to an Accountants On Call national poll conducted by the Gallup Organization.

Fewer than one in 10 (8 percent) employed adults report they would accept the job with some reservations. But six in 10 employed adults report they would refuse a job that would require spending a significant amount of time away from their family.

This new survey on Job vs. Family is part of AOC's ongoing "profiles of the American worker" series which summarizes the opinions, attitudes, and behavior of employed Americans concerning workplace issues.

For the survey, full- and part-time workers were asked if they would "accept the job with no reservations, accept it with some reservations, or refuse the job."

Employed adults under 30 are more likely than older workers to say they would accept the job with some or no reservations (52 percent vs. 38 percent).

Similarly, unmarried adults more frequently say they would accept the job, while married workers are less likely.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Effective December 28, 1991

Dr. Robert Hill will be retiring from the active practice of medicine.

Dr. Kumar and Patel will take over the office and the medical records.

If you choose to go to a doctor other than these, your records will be transferred to the doctor of your choice upon receipt of a written authorization.

Rep tries new twist on 'The Nutcracker'

By Darrell Shoultz
Correspondent

"The Nutcracker," the story of the magical Christmas gift that whisks a young girl into an enchanted world of magic and wonder, is for some as much a part of the holidays as Christmas tree, manger scenes and tinsel.

Throughout the St. Louis area, "Nutcracker" fans have a plethora of productions to choose from each year, as ballet companies large and small offer up renditions of what may be the best known dance production of all.

This year the Repertory Theater of St. Louis' Imaginary Theater Company offers a new look at an old favorite. After touring local schools for the last few weeks, "The Nutcracker and the Mouse King" moves to the Loretto-Hilton Mainstage for performances beginning Dec. 19. It'll give one and all the chance to see a "Nutcracker" that is something completely different.

For starters, "The Nutcracker and the Mouse King" is a new adaptation aimed, as are many ITC productions, at the entire family. Director Tom Martin, who also helmed last season's show, said it's shorter (51 minutes), taking the first part of the popular story and making it a play unto itself.

"Our play ends with the death of the Mouse King," Martin said. "In other versions, that comes at the beginning of the production."

And there's no dance. "This is whole different form," Martin said. "This is story theater. There's some narrative, lots of props, a couple of puppets and lots of costume changes. We've changed things around quite a bit."

The ITC version was written by Jahanna Beecham and Malcolm Hillgartner, a husband-wife acting and writing team. The Rep's associate director, Susan Gregg, met them in Montana, where the couple runs the annual "Gathering at Bigfork," a play development conference. Jeffery Matthews, the Rep's artistic supervisor, had the idea of staging a new version of the "Nutcracker," Gregg said.

"As soon as we began thinking about doing an adaptation of 'Nutcracker,' it struck me that Jahanna and Malcolm would be perfect," said Gregg, who has worked as a director at the Gathering. "They're actors, but since there's not enough work in Montana to keep actors busy full-time, they also write teen books."

The task of reworking the familiar story wasn't easy, Gregg said.

"This is an amalgamation of bits and pieces from several different short stories and myths, and Jahanna and Malcolm had to figure some way of gluing everything together," Gregg said.

During the creation of the play, Martin said, Beecham and Hillgartner saw puppets as well as live actors.

"They've been involved in puppet theater in the past, so they were thinking a lot about puppets," Martin said. "But we didn't want to do a puppet presentation, so we've explained them and made them live characters, although we've kept two puppets."

And all these live characters are played by just the four members of the ITC touring troupe: Tracy Arnold, Catherine Berry, Christian Malmin and Patricia Pierre-Antoine. The quartet handles many roles — and works the scenery and props as well.

"Some of the cast members are playing as many as five different parts," Martin said. "With the ITC having only four members, shows are cast with that in mind, although this show has about 18 different characters. When you work with ITC, you have to do a little bit of everything."

"I tried to keep their particular play as visual as possible," he said. "We think 'Nutcracker' is something the whole family will enjoy," Martin said.

Parents can offset war play's bad effects

By Jane Cosby
Correspondent

If you have been in a toy store this season, you may have noticed the vast array of war toys available to toy buyers. From the looks of things, they will be leaving some pretty formidable arsenals under trees this year.

Since this is the toy buying season, the questions about toys and their impact on children arise anew in many parents' minds.

Balancing what kids ask for and what parents know is the best for them has never been easy. But the onslaught of commercial messages aimed at kids these days makes that pressure exerted of parents even more intense.

Judy Kulczycki, an early childhood specialist with the Child Day Care Association, which coordinates day care services in the St. Louis area, just said the issue of toys and children, especially war toys.

"I was interested in issues of peace and helping children grow up to be peaceful adults," said Kulczycki. "We have idealistic goals and yet know that children are growing up in a very violent world."

Kulczycki says that just banning war games is not a good idea.

"The play goes underground, then comes up when you are not looking," said Kulczycki. "And then you are not paying attention to children's needs." Kulczycki said that children use war play to deal with important issues in their lives, like war and control. On the other hand, Kulczycki said, this kind of war play can get out of control very easily, and kids can get hurt or property can be destroyed. So just ignoring it is not the right answer either, she said.

Kulczycki offered some suggestions for parents wanting to direct their children's war play. She credits these suggestions to Nancy Carlson-Paige and Diane Smith, authors of "Who's Calling the Shots: How to Respond Effectively to Children's Fascination with War Play and War Toys" (New Society Publishers). She says parents should:

• Get involved directly in their children's war play. "I don't observe what is going on and try to figure out what issues children are working through in

"Try to take a role in the play and direct it in positive ways," she said. "They can't just sit down the stereotypes presented in television shows and help children understand that people and things cannot be separated into good or bad, Kulczycki said."

Jane Cosby is a former teacher and the author of "The Little Girl Who Said No" (ABCs for Parents, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 100, St. Louis, Mo. 63141).

"Provide opportunities for adventure play that are more positive than war themes. Some suggestions, from Kulczycki are: play centered round detectives, camping, fire fighters or space themes.

• Emphasize positive, real-life heroes and heroines. They can use news accounts to show children how real heroes achieve success.

• Look in children's literature for examples of the same issues children deal with in war play. Kulczycki uses "Where the Wild Things Are" by Maurice Sendak as an example of a book that deals with children's need for control and wielding power.

• Talk to their children about television shows — from which kids get ideas for much of the war play they indulge in — and get them to start questioning the action and thinking about problem-solving solutions besides violent ones.

"Help children see that things in real life are not black and white," she said. "They can try to take down the stereotypes presented in television shows and help children understand that people and things cannot be separated into good or bad, Kulczycki said."

• Emphasize positive, real-life heroes and heroines. They can use news accounts to show children how real heroes achieve success.

• Look in children's literature for examples of the same issues children deal with in war play. Kulczycki uses "Where the Wild Things Are" by Maurice Sendak as an example of a book that deals with children's need for control and wielding power.

• Talk to their children about television shows — from which kids get ideas for much of the war play they indulge in — and get them to start questioning the action and thinking about problem-solving solutions besides violent ones.
